

Tools of the Trade

DVR Lets Legacy CCTV Systems Adapt to Technological Advances

Indianapolis-based Stanley Security Products, a business division of Stanley Security Solutions Group, has upgraded its VIP® video management system with VIP X. VIP X is a scalable, enterprise-level digital video recorder (DVR) designed to integrate with existing CCTV components, as well as third-party transaction systems, such as automated tellers, point-of-sale systems, alarm panels and access control systems.

According to Stanley, the functionality of existing components is extended through integration to the enterprise network. As a result, the existing CCTV investment is protected, and campuses are able to take full advantage of technological advancements in IT and video surveillance technology.

Reader Service Card Number 258