

June 2006

Stanley Security Solutions introduces new and improved 40H mortise lock.

Best Access Systems, a division of Stanley Security Solutions, today announced that its popular 40H mortise lock has undergone a significant design upgrade, combining the critical elements of form and design together with one of the industry's most enduring and time tested lock hardware products. The new 40H mortise lock decorative trim reflects a growing architectural trend and demand among the architectural community for a locking system to include a high degree of performance combined with a more aesthetic and visually pleasing display. As a result, the 40H mortise lock now includes the best of both worlds, integrating the essential components of performance and security along with elegance and beauty. The enhanced 40H mortise lock features five new lever designs that are readily available, plus a wide range of designs that can be specially ordered.

Regardless of which design is selected, end users receive the full benefits of the strength, durability, and flexibility that's been designed into every 40H mortise lock.

Best Access Systems, 6161 East 75th Street, Indianapolis, IN, 46250
(317/849-2250) www.bestaccess.com